ALLEN CHAPEL NOTES.

Sunday morning, November 21, was a beautiful Sabbath morning, and I believe that this was the feeling upmost in every heart, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord, our feet shall stand within thy gate, O Jerusalem." Promptly at 11 o'clock Prof. R. G. Jackson began playing the processional, and Allen chapel's famous choir marched down the aisle and took their places and sang as sweetly as the day was beautiful. The opening hymn was No. 617 in the A. M. E. Hymnal, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee, Thou Lamb of Calvary."

Exactly at 11:30 o'clock Dr. Thomas began preaching. His text was from the 22d Psalm, 15th verse, which is, "And thou hast brought me into the dust of death," and the 26th chapter of Isaiah, 19th verse, which is, "Awake and sing, ye that dwell in the dust." His subject was, "A Message to Those That Dwell in the Dust." The message was inspiring and uplifting.

The invitation for members was extended and Miss Beulah E. Coleman, a young lady, and trained nurse from Tuskegee, Ala., came forward and joined the church. She was very highly recommended as a Christian young woman by the pastor of the A. M. E. church of Tuskegee.

At 6 o'clock the three Endeavor societies met and held an interesting and spirited meeting. The subject of the lessons was "Thanking God." The seniors were led by Prof. W. H. Dawley. The intermediates were led by Mr. J. H. Heywood. The juniors were led by the supervisor.

At 7:30 in the evening memorial exercises were held in the auditorium of Allen chapel in honor of Dr. Booker T. Washington.

The auditorium was full to overflowing, as was the balcony of the church. The audience reminded one of those large audiences which assembled in Allen chapel during general conference. After the great audience had assembled Prof. R. G. Jackson began the processional and a choir of 60 voices marched in and took their places and sang an opening hymn "Abide With Me." The following is the program:

Invocation—Rev. W. H. Thontas.
Song—"Abide With Me," choir.
Memorial—Read by Prof. R. T. Coles.
Chorus—"My Lord, What a Morning."

Booker T. Washington as a Moses—Albion C. H. Calloway.
Chorus—"By and By," a plantation melody, a favorite of Dr. Washington.

Booker T. Washington as an Educator—Prof. H. T. Keeling.

Booker T. Washington's Memorial Dirge—Composed by Major N. Clark Smith, violin cello and organ.

Booker T. Washington at Home—Prof. J. R. E. Lee.

Booker T. Washington as a Citizen—Chaplain George W. Pringleau of the Ninth cavalry.

Booker T. Washington as the Man—Attorney W. C. Hueston.

Hymn—Congregation.

Dr. J. E. Dibble, master of ceremonies.

The above was as fine a memorial program as I ever witnessed.

Backlogs Made of Stone.

It will surprise many persons of the present day to be told that the "backlog" of which we read so much in old-time stories was a large stone, a porous stone being preferred if possible. This stone was buried in the ashes, and on top was placed the "back stick." The back stone in those primitive times played a very important part in the economy of early house-keeping. Matches were not then invented. Flint, steel and tow were the only means of lighting a fire or a lamp. Imagine for a moment the Bridget of today thus engaged, with the thermometer ten degrees below zero in the kitchen. The stone, together with the ashes with which it was covered, served to retain fire and heat through the night, and all that was necessary in the morning was a little kindling and gentle use of the indispensable bellows and a fire was as readily made as at the present day.

Women Should Drink More Water.

Physicians will tell you that women do not drink enough water, that the sex is given to various internal disorders because a thorough flushing of the body is necessary to make the organs do their duty. More than one patient has been told that fewer women would have to go to spas for treatment if they would drink water as freely at home, and take it between meals at that. Thin women have been known to gain flesh through this known to gain flesh through this process, and stout ones have lost it by exercising a due amount of care in drinking. People with flesh are given to a freer use of water than their thinner sisters think necessary and they generally enjoy better health.

FRENCH OFFICER'S REMARKABLE ESCAPE FROM MOB.

Revelation of Closely Guarded Secret May Have Been Unpleasant but Undoubtedly There Were Great Compensations.

On February 24, 1848, when Paris was disturbed by the revolutionary mobs, a Captain Prebois was sent by the government with orders to be delivered to the leaders of the troops that were defending the threatened points in various parts of the city. It was a dangerous undertaking, for the bitterness of the people against the government was intense.

Before starting out, says Novellen-Schatz, Captain Prebois was warned to take the greatest care if he valued his life; but he took the warnings lightly, and said, "If you fellows knew my black horse as well as I know him, you wouldn't worry about me. That horse has carried me through thick and thin." And with a farewell wave of his hand, he was off.

The black horse of which the gallant captain was so proud was indeed a beautiful animal. He had a well-shaped, erect head, a deep chest, and slender, well-formed legs. But there was something very extraordinary about his tail. It was long and bushy, but it never moved or twitched, except with the movement of the animal's body. Close observation showed also that it had a slightly reddish hue, although the difference in color was not great enough to be noticed under ordinary conditions.

When Prebois arrived in the disturbed section of the city he fearlessly delivered his messages. He met with no resistance from the crowds in the streets until he reached the Place Vendome, one of the principal squares in the heart of the city. Here a great crowd of revolutionists had gathered, and as the officer rode through the square, some one seized the bridle and cried, in a fierce voice, "Hold! What message are you carrying?"

The captain refused to answer. "Put a bullet through him and get that message!" bawled out the man in a commanding voice. He was evidently a leader of the mob.

At this point, the captain determined that quick action alone would save him from violence at the hands of the crowd. Quick as a flash, he wheeled his horse, and dashed off. Several bullets flew after him, but they went wild—and then suddenly ceased altogether. He looked round, and saw the mob crowding round one of their number, who held something in his hand. And then his eyes fell on the back of his horse, and his heart sank in dismay.

It seemed that, as he whirled his horse about, several men seized hold of the animal. But the powerful creature threw them all except one, a lad of fourteen, who had seized the horse's tail. That tail was the object of interest that had caused the shooting to stop—for it had come off. There stood the boy, in the middle of the road, with his feet spread apart and an expression of grim determination on his face, as he tightly gripped the fleeing creature's tail. The mob saw the humor of the situation, and burst into a roar of laughter.

The explanation came out later. It seems that Captain Prebois' horse, while perfect in every other particular, did not have a very good tail, and so his master had had an artificial one made for him. No doubt that artificial tail, and that alone, saved Captain Prebois' life.

Value of Cool Nights.

Heat waves, says Edwin C. Martin author of "Our Own Weather," prove disastrous directly in proportion as hot nights are combined with hot days. "For a number of days successively the heat may mount during the day to extraordinary heights, but if the intervening nights turn comparatively cool the number of prostrations and deaths will be much less than under a considerably lower temperature continuing with scant abatement through the day and night. Thus any situation that peculiarly favors cooling off at night has a clear advantage during the prevalence of a hot wave. It is also an advantage to be insured to heat. The same degree of it that would cause great suffering to the people of the North imposes nothing more than discomfort on the people of the South.

TAILORING AND CLEANING

G. V. GOLDEN

1605 East 18th St., Kansas City, Mo., Bell, E. 539.

Improper cleaning and pressing ruins the construction and the shape of your clothes.

Garments of today are made by the most skilled designers of the 20th Century. The art of making a suit or a dress is done by experts; the from being one of the Principal Factors in shaping a garment. The inner construction of your coat, is the foundation upon which it is built. Time and patience, the proper kind of canvas padding, hair cloth, wadding, etc., is carefully selected to get the desired results.

If such patience and skill are required to build your suit it is only reasonable that it requires the same to keep its shape; therefore, the inner construction and shape are at stake in the hands of the inexperienced.

It is very easy for your garment to lose its Gracefulness and Body Line if not Properly Pressed.

We are showing and selling suits from $18.00 and up. If you have a misfitting overcoat or suit that needs remodeling, send them to us. We specialize, for we look after the small things.

It requires a thorough knowledge of the business in taking a garment apart and altering it, giving the same article a fit to your figure and still retaining its life and satisfaction to the wearer. Ladies' suits, furs, winter coats relined, altered to the different styles, are successfully handled by us. A trial will convince.

THE OLD WAY OF PRESSING.

OUR CLEANING DEPARTMENT.

Everyone knows there are only two kinds of successful cleaning—DRY and STEAM CLEANING. Steam Cleaning is the use of distilled water, neutralized soap, borax, ammonia, the use of chemicals and a great deal of thought and reasoning on account of the great variety of materials and the condition of the same. Articles steam cleaned require patience and re-shaping by the presser.

THE NEW WAY OF PRESSING.

OUR MACHINE IS A GERM EXTERMINATOR. THE HIGH STEAM PRESSURE KILLS THE EGG LIFE.

DRY or FRENCH CLEANING is the process of cleaning soiled garments or other textile fabrics by means of benzine, gasoline or similar volatile solvents, which extracts the greasy matter, thereby removing the dirt.

It is indicated for goods which would be spoiled by coming in contact with water, by losing the shape or original finish, or where the colors would not be sufficiently fast for steam cleaning. Dry cleaning does not clean every article perfectly, because benzine loosens the dirt held by greasy matter only, but has no influence on water, soluble matter like sugar and glue. For instance, if you get wine, ice cream, or water spots on a silk dress, benzine will not remove the spot. You cannot treat the spot the same as you would for wool or cotton goods—silks of today are mostly artificial, tin-weighted and finished with glucose and other sizing properties.

The colors in silk are not deep dyed. To prove the same, if you slightly rub a spot on silk, it reveals the color.

Organized cleaners of today are fighting the artificial silk manufacturers as many of the best shops do not guarantee silks.

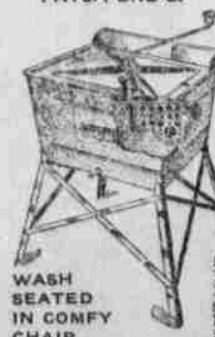

PRESSING DEPARTMENT.
